

Tree Protection Ordinance

A tree protection ordinances can address a variety of issues, including the planting and removal of trees during development, protection of native species and heritage trees, and landscaping and maintenance standards.

